Report: Component Orders Rise in February

Written by Tuesday, 11 March 2008 11:12 -

ARLINGTON, VA – During the last five years, February has been good to the electronic components industry and it was no different last month: Orders bounced back after a January downturn, according to the Electronic Components Association.□

Γ

The 12-month average continued its almost imperceptible rise that has been happening since last August, says the association.

"February was business as usual for the electronic components industry," says Bob Willis, ECA president.